1. A group of industrial buildings for the manufacture of arms and ammunition is located in the area of Darste, an industrial suburb about six kilometers southeast of Stalin (Brasov). The buildings occupy an area of about two kilometers, and lie about 500 meters east of the railway line to Bucharest.
2. This group of buildings, which has been given the designation "Veina Bela Brainer," is said to include the following:
  - a. The former Astra Company, which built heavy industrial machinery, now called the Steagul Rosu Plant; and
  - b. The former Metron Ferola Company, which manufactured ammunition and mechanical and metallurgical products.
3. About 12 kilometers southwest of Stalin, near the small town of Rasnov, there is an explosive factory which produces explosives for the extractive industries. Its exact location is unknown, but it is said to occupy a large area northwest of Rasnov and to be made up of small buildings or sheds spaced very far apart.
